

. Isla de Altomuro, 1994

A wide-angle photograph of a desert landscape featuring rolling sand dunes. The dunes are a light tan color with visible wind patterns on their slopes. The sky is a clear, vibrant blue, filled with soft, white, wispy clouds. The overall scene is serene and expansive.

This look book is an edit of our products inspired by the Sea of Cortez, where the desert surrounds the sea. The selection is divided in two sections, wood and black powder coated metal for interiors.

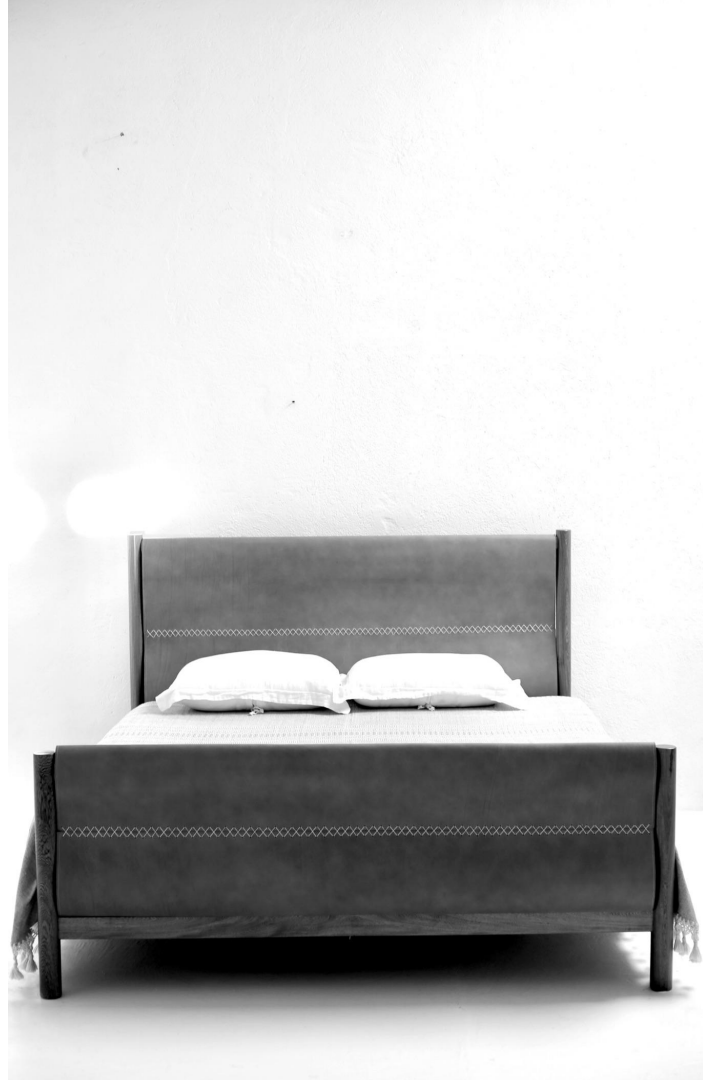

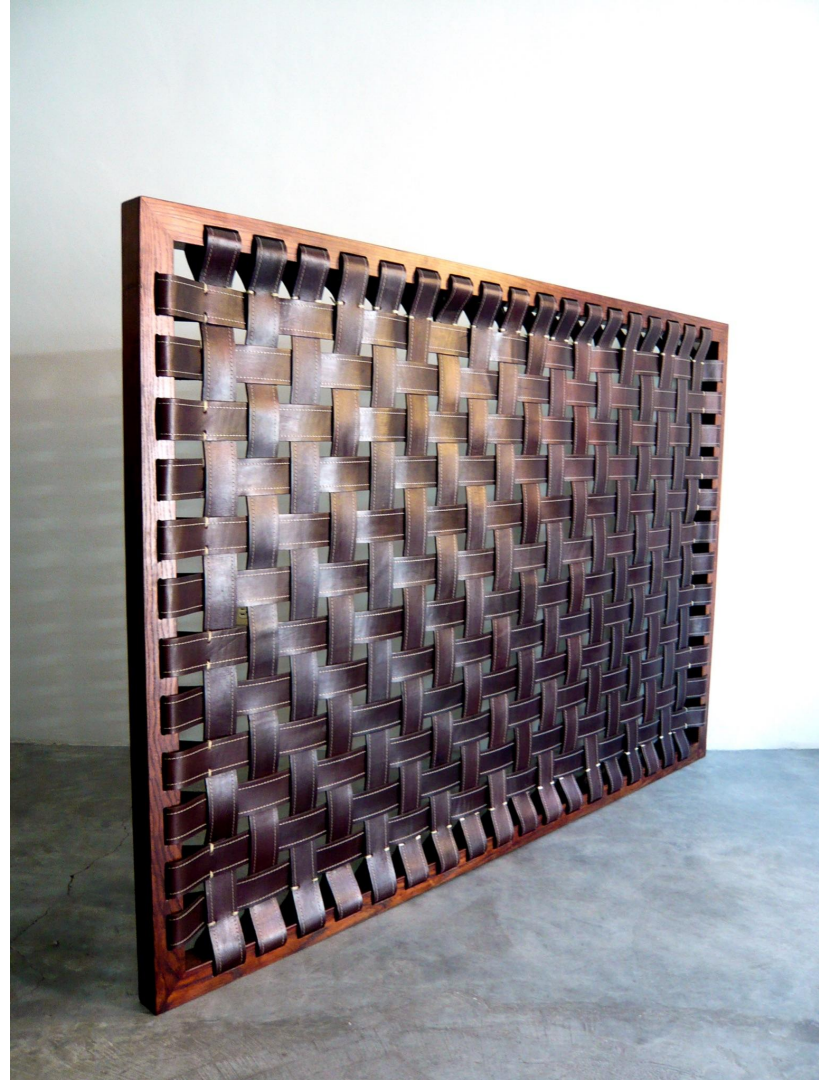

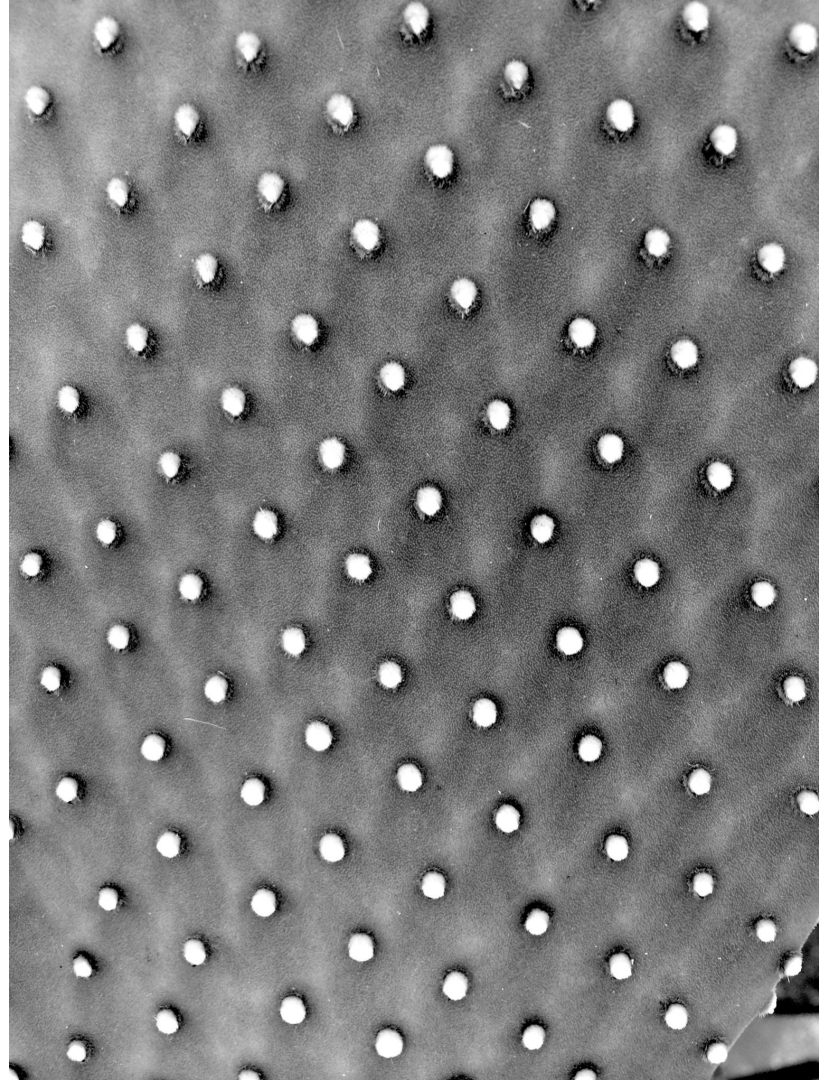

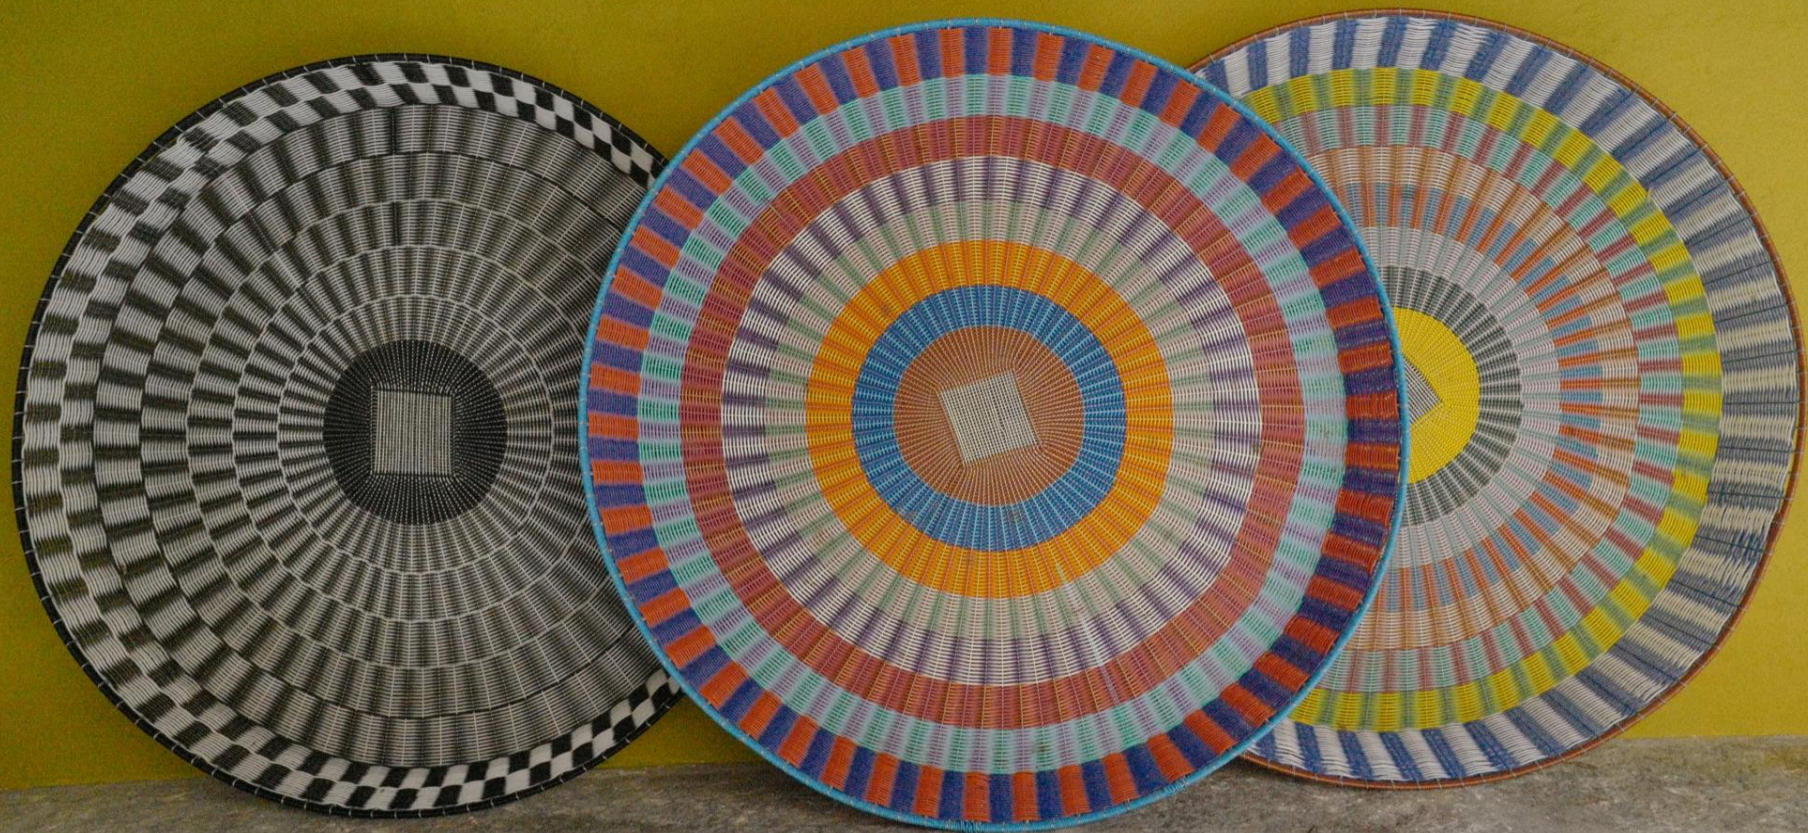

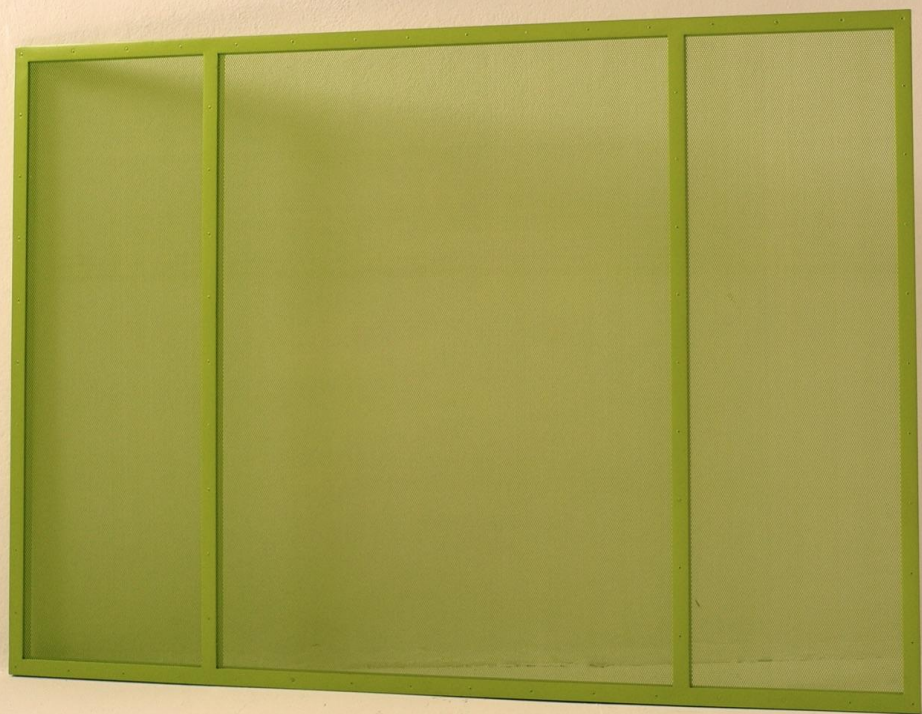

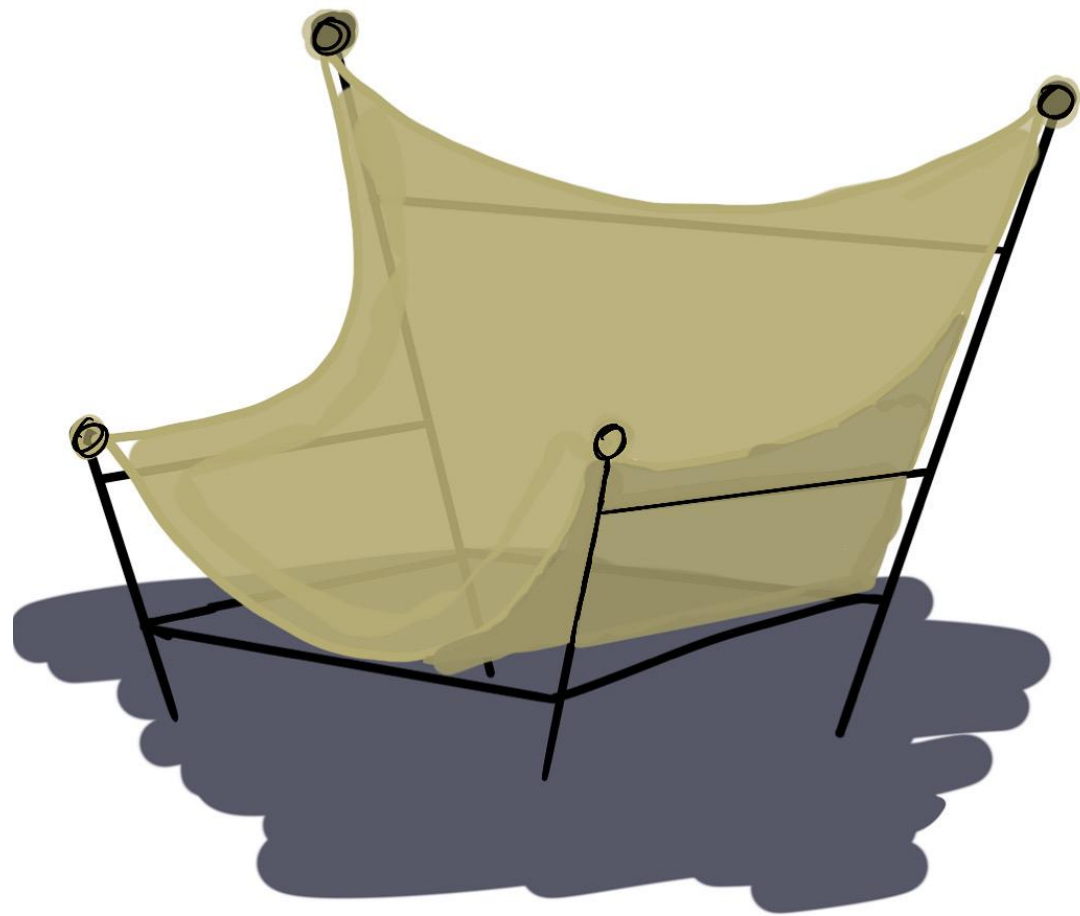

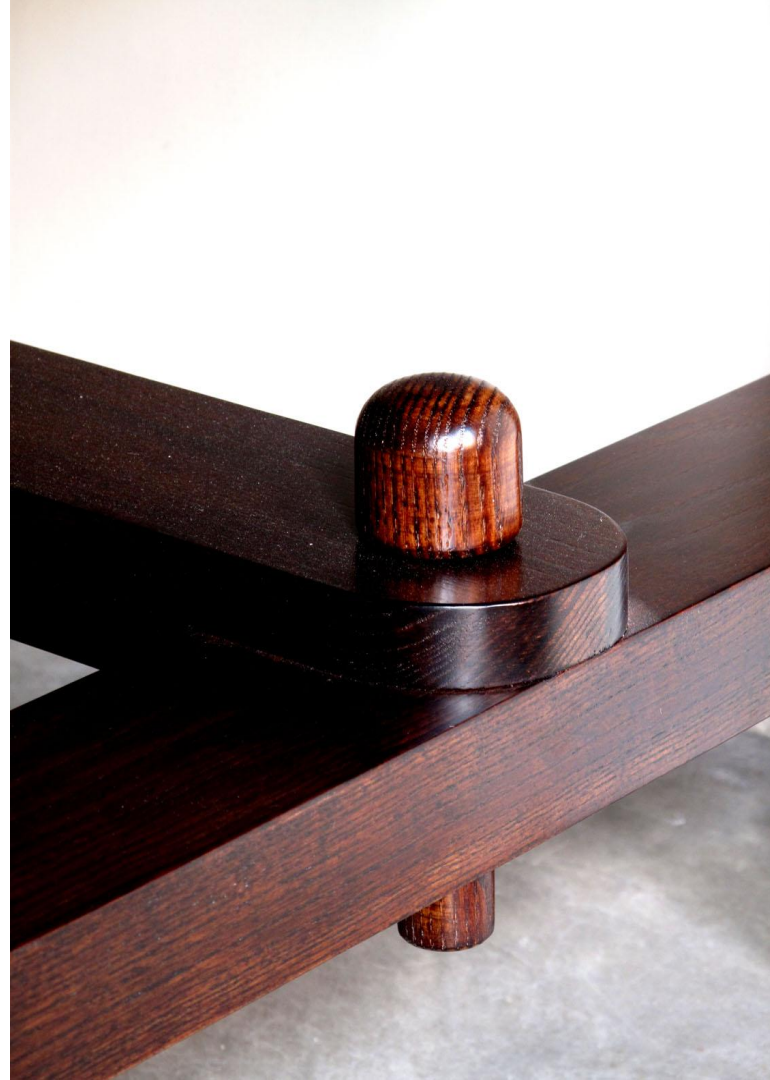

Wool textiles have always played an important role in Mexico. Though it may seem like a contradictory for the beach we find its rich texture and infinite colors ideal when used as panels.

Our tropical lights can be made in copper sheet ideal for coastal application.

We value very much our collaboration with Wixarika artists from Nayarit. These masterpieces of glass beadwork are embedded with much meaning and astonishing by their complexity.
